

David & Tina Beehler

It is our distinct pleasure to describe and provide our highest recommendation for Dan Motzko in any home construction you might be considering. We've built several homes over the years and are well aware of the importance of attention to detail and quality of workmanship and the effort that it takes to ensure that quality of work. Dan brought that respect for quality to our project in an impressive, professional way.

Like many people, we think we know what we want and are often frustrated with the lack of service so many companies display. Dan Motzko's work ethic and values were such a welcome breath of fresh air. He worked around our busy schedules, made recommendations when necessary or when options should be considered and made many personal sacrifices of his time – all the while making certain the project would be finished on time regardless of the weather.

But quality and work ethic isn't the only thing Dan brought to this project. We had been frustrated by an architect who we felt was not understanding the true creative goal we had in mind in building a "new" farmhouse –traditional on the outside but a complete surprise with the interior. Dan not only "got it" but brought in the people to make it happen. And the results thrilled us.

Our "Camp David" retreat is done. We love it. And we encourage you to meet with Dan if you want your building experience to be as enjoyable as ours!
